During the 2016/2017 reporting period, Logos University International undertook a number of activities that underscore its commitment to UNAI and its principles. The following examples stand out as particularly noteworthy:

Training courses:

We employ about 9 free courses for the evolution of educational intelligence, they are: Immunology, Human Rights in the 21st Century, Public Health, Cause of Abnormal Behavior from the Perspective of Psychoanalysis, Philosophy of Religion, Recruitment in People Management, Reception and Catastrophic Disaster Counseling, Natural Health Symposium and Environmental Maintenance Course.

Some Activities took place in person and others through our Online Classroom.

In addition, we also have a course that could possibly help in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals, namely, the Sustainable Development, Master Student Research activity.

The research focused on awareness of the exaggerated consumption of water. Brazil is a country rich in drinking water source but with little awareness of proper use. Brazil per capita consumption is 187 liters per day, and only for the production of 1 kg of beef 15 thousand liters of water are needed, approximately 3.5 thousand liters for 1 kg of chicken. A jeans demand 15 thousand, a T-shirt 3,5 thousand and a kilo of corn consumes for its production 900 liters of water. In this project the students suggested the construction of structures for collecting rainwater and the reuse of water in the domestic environment.
